“DJ” David J. Wabick Jr. • Partner • (708) 280-9865 • DJ@Kreshmore.com

DJ Wabick is a former United State Specialty Sports Association (USSSA) Senior Vice President with a very diverse sports background. Originally drafted out of high school by the Chicago White Sox (2002), DJ continued onto college where he would become a Division I Baseball All-American at the College of Charleston (2005). That same year DJ was drafted once again, but this time by the New York Mets organization where he would go onto play for parts of six professional seasons.

Following his playing career, DJ started working with the USSSA where he would work his way up from a local director (2010 – 2012), to a State Director (2013-2016), to a USSSA Senior Vice President (2016 – 2020) with duties that included the oversight of the USSSA National Baseball Program and International Programs. DJ has helped oversee and run numerous events in Europe and Africa while working in other capacities in Asia and Mexico. DJ's international relationships and work has afforded him the opportunity to be on the World Baseball and Softball Confederations (WBSC) Coach Commission which helps to administer and facilitate coach development programs across the 211 National Federations and Associate Members of the WBSC, was the leading voice on behalf of USSSA in becoming an Associate Member of the WBSC, and helped USSSA in acquiring the hosting rights for the 2018 WBSC Women's Baseball World Cup.

In 2017 DJ helped USSSA broker a deal with the Major League Baseball Players Association (MLBPA) to help run a large National Development program, the Select 30. Following the completion of the Select 30, DJ helped in orchestrating a partnership between the MLBPA and USSSA called Players Way which is geared towards the true development of an athlete. DJ is a current Board Member of Players Way.

DJ has also consulted at different levels of projects as they relate to the development of multisport facilities. DJ helped with pre-construction, construction, post construction, and program implementation at the Woodside Sports Complex located in Mauston, WI including a full economic feasibility study, strategic partnerships, operations, and staffing. DJ oversaw the development of a Feasibility Analysis and Summary Business Plan for the Village of Orland Park's current athletic facilities and future development, a Housing Summary and Economic Impact Report for Brevard County on behalf of USSSA, and various other economic and feasibility studies for different municipalities and privately owned athletic facilities.

Emily is an accomplished sports executive that carries over fifteen years of leadership in the industry. She has proven skills in managing a diverse portfolio of high-profile clients and events with a large participant base that generate significant revenue. She has demonstrated the ability to enhance existing events and facilities by incorporating new concepts that drive both a superior guest experience and increased profitability through strong partnering internally and externally. She manages with enthusiasm, positivity, and a focus on delivering results that exceed the guest and client expectations.

Most recently, Emily held the role of General Manager, USSSA Space Coast Complex. In this role she oversaw the management of travel operations, box office, event management, facility maintenance, guest services, sales and budget / capital planning. At this venue she was responsible for the execution of over 45 annual events with a unique participation in excess of 34,000 and overall attendance in excess of 260,000. Emily found innovative ways to meet budget goals, cultivated positive relationships with local officials and global industry partners, and developed operational processes for efficiency. Emily was appointed as a member of USSSA's Executive Leadership Team, allowing her to engage in dynamic discussions to drive positive organizational change.

The foundation for Emily's career was set at the Walt Disney World Resort. She began within the resorts division but quickly transitioned to ESPN Wide World of Sports to pursue her passion. Throughout her twelve-year tenure she was promoted through several leadership roles to include Event Management, Sales / Partnerships, and Event Development / Programming. She worked with various organizations to include AAU, Baseball Canada, Diamond 9, MLB, MSBL, PGA, Tampa Bay Rays, Tampa Bay Buccaneers, Triple Crown, Under Armour, and USSSA. She was a top performer during her time at Disney for which she received the 'Platinum Sales Award' over multiple years, and she earned a spot in the '100 Percent Club' in 2014, an award earned for reaching the highest level of sales.
